I’D RATHER BE BLIND with GRANT & JANNA LOCK

Successful Australian stud cattle breeders, Grant and Janna moved into voluntary development work in the Islamic Republics of Pakistan and Afghanistan. Among other roles, Grant directed Afghanistan's largest eye care program until he himself became blind. Hear why the widows of Kabul call Janna ‘Frishta’ (Angel). Now living back in Australia, Grant has authored several books and both he and Janna are in demand as inspirational speakers.

Shoot Me First has regularly been in Koorong's top 100 best sellers and has resulted in invitations to speak around Australia: at conferences, workshops, seminars and churches, and on radio and TV.

"Riveting. To his experience in some of the world's most troubled places, Lock brings a bushman's wit and wisdom. Lock writes about Islam with authority and insight."

John Anderson AO, former Deputy PM

I'd Rather Be Blind. While the Director of Afghanistan's biggest eye-care program, Grant's own eyes started to fail. In his compelling storytelling style, he talks about identity, reality, secular humanism, Islam, adjusting to disability and Janna's journey through PTSD.
